Principal's Message

Panther Family ,

We are firmly into second semester! Students should be focused on making sure they are passing all of their classes so they may finish the year positively. For our upperclassmen, juniors wanting to attend college should be examining the test dates for SAT and ACT and registering to take these tests before the year is over. Seniors should be completing college applications, trade school applications, scholarship applications, and preparing for their life after high school. Our guidance counselors and our college and career counselor, Ms. Atkinson, are here to help you with all of this. Please reach out to them with any questions.

The underclassmen need to continue to focus on their classes and maintain a minimum of a 2.0 GPA. So many of our Panthers excel and exceed this! In the next couple of months, they will be working with their guidance counselors to choose classes and register for next year. During this meeting, they will also review their current progress. Parents may always check their student's progress through FOCUS and email their teachers or counselors with any questions they may have.

This semester is full of activities, award ceremonies, arts and athletic events, as well as standardized testing. It is important to make sure your child/ren make it to school every day so they do not miss valuable class time needed to prepare them to be successful on these tests and to perform their best at all events. The school website, <https://cyh.leeschools.net>, is a great place to check the calendar and keep up with ALL that is going on at Cypress Lake. The students and staff love to see you at games and exhibits, supporting our Panthers.

Wishing you a WONDERFUL "Panther" Spring,

Angela Roles
Principal

Empty Bowls

Cypress Lake is participating in Empty Bowls this year at the Alliance for the Arts to help hunger one bowl at a time. Tim Smith, founder and chief executive officer of Sanibel Pottery and an art teacher at Cypress Lake Center for the Arts, said he contacted Community Cooperative Chief Executive Officer Stefanie Edwards to see if they could get the Empty Bowl event going again, which received a yes.

"I am making bowls at the studio. I ordered clay to give out to teachers and they are making bowls with their students in class," Smith explained.

Edwards said the Alliance for the Arts has been an incredible partner of theirs and always has been. She said they have not held Empty Bowls since 2017, as Hurricane Irma impacted the area and COVID struck. She said now they are getting back to strengthening their partnerships that is already in place with the School District of Lee County.

"The whole concept of the event is really about raising hunger awareness in our community through art. We do that with partnering with the Lee County School District," Edwards said. "I think we have 16 schools that are participating. We provide the clay and material for students and they create ceramic bowls. The goal, Smith said, is to create 500 bowls. The bowls are used for the fundraiser at the end of February. Admission is free for kids and $10 for adults 18 and older. "The bowls are sold at the event and when folks come to the event with a $10 donation for Community Cooperative, you receive a bowl of your choice as a keepsake if you will. A lot of folks use that bowl as their soup tasting bowl," Edwards said. All of the money raised from the event will go directly back to Community Cooperative's mission of ending hunger and homelessness.

Dance Assessment and Honors

We are extremely proud of the students who participated in the Florida Dance Performance Assessment and the National Honor Society for Dance Arts state Honors Concert.

Our dancers earned straight Superiors on the Florida Dance Performance Assessment.

The Florida Dance Performance Assessment is our version of a state level assessment that includes three sections. They consist of a Technical Proficiency, Movement Acquisition and Ensemble Performance sections. The Technical Proficiency includes a set of Ballet, Modern and Jazz etudes that the students learn ahead of time and perform in front of an adjudicating panel. These etudes were the most difficult set of etudes since FDPA was created. The level of work that was required of our students was equal to college conservatory dance. They were challenging to say the least. The Movement Acquisition section requires the students to learn dance phrases and perform them on the spot. The genre is not known ahead of time and could include ballet, modern, jazz or musical theatre dance. They are also adjudicated on how quickly they pick up the movement, if they apply corrections and/or imagery or technical suggestions and how well they perform that movement with expression. The final section is Ensemble Performance where they perform a piece of choreography on stage with no costumes or special lighting and are adjudicated on how well they perform as an ensemble with expression, musicality and technical proficiency. Our piece was Sophisticated choreographed by an alumni Alexis Campbell from our graduating class of 2013. It was an intense, physically demanding and fierce 5-minute piece. The students perform all of the sections back to back. The emotional and physical demands are extremely high and exhausting. They were absolutely amazing!

The Honors Concert is a state-wide concert that is done that evening with different chapters of the National Honor Society for Dance Arts getting an opportunity to perform for a state-wide audience. The students performed Sophisticated in this concert and received multiple compliments on how strong they were as performers and on their performance.

The next day consists of college auditions and master classes. Eight of our students auditioned for colleges, universities, conservatories and festivals from around the state and nation. They did a wonderful job and were given opportunities to continue to study at some of the most prestigious dance schools in the state.

They worked so hard and we're are so immensely proud of them. Please congratulate these students.
